

CONNECT WITH COMMUNITY

A Referral Guide to local community-based activities at neighbourhood
houses in the Upper Murray

This resource was developed as part of the Behind the Scenes at the Neighbourhood House project funded by the Victorian Responsible Gambling Foundation through their Prevention Partnership Program. The project aims to reduce gambling related harm by creating opportunities for people to connect and participate in community activities as an alternative to gambling, and by reducing loneliness and social isolation, both risk factors in gambling related harm.

Purpose of this guide

This resource is designed to give service providers working with clients in the Upper Murray region information about community-based, local activities offered by neighbourhood houses.

These activities range in cost from free to fee for service. Clients can be referred and supported to participate in these activities where appropriate.

Why refer to a neighbourhood house?

Neighbourhood houses (also known as neighbourhood centres, community centres, community houses, learning centres and community learning centres) are well recognised by the Victorian Government as playing an important role in building vibrant communities through a unique structure and community development approach.

They are identified as being significant places of inclusion, providing valuable social, recreational, educational and training opportunities. They are welcoming, non-threatening places, where anyone can come to meet new people, contribute to their community, get helpful information and learn new skills. They connect people through their diverse volunteering roles, and through their programs, services, information, support and community activities.

Programs offered are diverse, and include:

- Community meals
- Community transport
- Exercise
- Health and wellbeing
- Music
- Art and craft
- Family support programs
- Vocational education and training
- Literacy and numeracy training
- Emergency preparedness
- Environmental sustainability
- Indigenous and CALD cultural activities
- School holiday programs
- Playgroups and childcare
- Youth groups

Some neighbourhood houses also provide services such as Centrelink and VicRoads. Several run social enterprises.

Although neighbourhood houses differ from each other in many ways, they are united by the Neighbourhood House Sector Framework and therefore aim to:

- assist community members to make their communities fairer and more sustainable with the resources, services and infrastructure they need
- empower communities to have more control over their own destiny
- encourage personal growth, self-help and the sharing of knowledge

Using this guide to support the health and wellbeing of your clients:

Step 1 – Can neighbourhood houses meet your needs?

Discuss with your client whether community-based activity will provide them with the support they need.

Step 2 – Find a good fit

Review locations on the map (p5) to see which neighbourhood houses are the most accessible. Look through the categories and list of offerings to find what most interests your client.

Categories:

- Sharing food 12
- Food relief 13
- Cooking classes 14
- Health and wellbeing 15
- Social groups and programs 18
- Art and craft groups and programs 20
- Community programs 23
- Social enterprises 26
- Family 28
- Learning 29
- Accredited courses 32

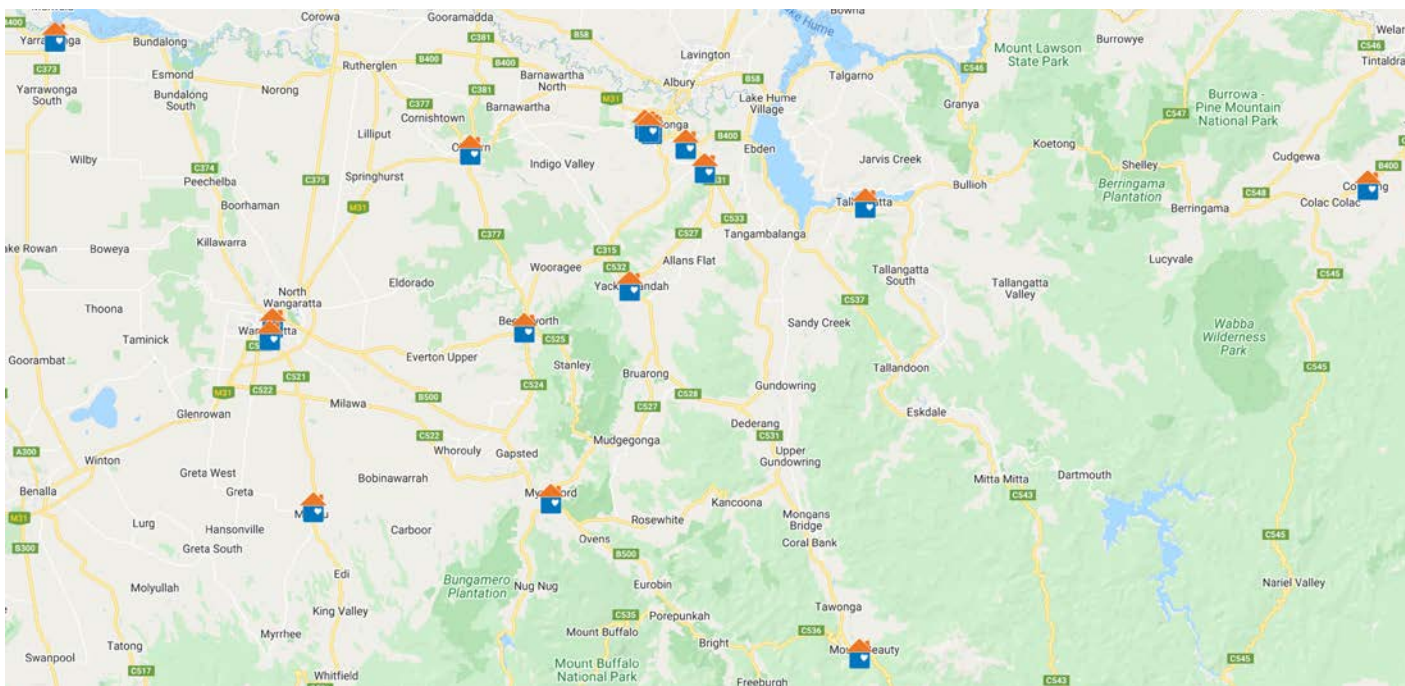

Step 3 – Set it up

Give your client the information they need to follow it up themselves, or you may want to make an appointment time for them to visit the neighbourhood house.

Disclaimer: Longevity of guide – not everything is going to be available all the time. Please always call the neighbourhood house to check the availability of program. Check the Upper Murray Regional Neighbourhood House website for the most recent version of this Referral Guide: www.uppermurraynhn.org

Volunteering

Volunteering has been proven to have a meaningful and positive impact on individuals and communities. The benefits of volunteering are many; people who volunteer are happier, healthier and sleep better than those who don't. Other benefits include:

- Helping you make new friends and contacts
- Increasing your social and relationship skills
- Increasing self-confidence
- Helping combat depression
- Helping you stay physically active and healthy
- Providing work experience
- Teaching you invaluable job skills
- Bringing fun and fulfilment to your life

The time contributed to volunteering can be large or small. People shouldn't be deterred by thinking they have to commit to a permanent or regular arrangement.

Contact any of the neighbourhood houses listed for more information about volunteering.
